I feel that nurses use the "appeal to authority" to back up their decisions because they can't directly challenge an MD's authority.

One important thing to bear in mind is that, when combined with an approach holistic in nature, their effectiveness increases and can prove to be quite essential to treating impotence.